Background & Experience

Diane A. Thompson practices in the area of executive compensation and all types of employment benefits, for both public and private companies and nonprofit organizations in all of Ballard Spahr's western offices. She focuses on designing and operating incentive and equity compensation programs, qualified and non-qualified savings and retirement plans, and ESOPs. In addition, she advises companies on incentive compensation and human resources risk management, hiring and separation agreements, and payroll issues. Diane also advises plan administrators of union welfare benefits and retirement plans. Her professional experience encompasses senior corporate human resources roles and leadership roles in consulting. She regularly advises compensation committees and senior financial and business leadership, including boards of directors and C-level executives. Diane recently served as a court appointed receiver for the US District Court, operating a self-directed IRA/401(k) administrator with more than $350 million in unique real estate and other hard to value assets. Diane is the industry leader for the Ballard Spahr Analytical, Optical and Imaging Manufacturing sector, leading a team of multi-disciplinary attorneys focused on providing business and legal counsel on the unique needs of these companies.
